

Final Assignment Proposal

Like the Name Game from American Horror Story, this process, known as 'The Friendship Algorithm' was too derived from a TV show, The Big Bang Theory. It starts with a phone call placed by Sheldon, this socially inept physicist, in his quest to befriend Barry. The process is deconstructed in a flow chart below. It consists of a series of operations and yes/no questions asked by the caller to the callee that ultimately arrive at a social engagement with that person (in Sheldon's case, rock climbing with Barry). For my final assignment, I intend to take it a step further and make it more user friendly; only relevant information appear on the screen at once, also add either buttons or drop-down menus, also tweak and fix discrepancies in the system (if any).
